

Sabre Industries

Sabre Industries, Inc. is the parent company of Sabre Communications Corporation and CellXion, LLC which include the divisions Sabre Towers and Poles, Sabre Site Solutions, Sabre Tubular Structures, Sabre Defense and Homeland Security Systems, Sabre Galvanizing, CellXion and CellXion Wireless Services.

Sabre Industries, headquartered in Sioux City, Iowa, provides infrastructure products and services to the telecommunications and utility markets throughout the United States and internationally. The experienced management teams at each of the company's divisions design and manufacture towers, monopoles, enclosure products, tower accessories and utility structures. As the largest tower and shelter manufacturer in the United States, Sabre Industries is the only company in the tower industry with the ability to provide the infrastructure products and services necessary for the deployment of wireless networks. In addition, the company serves the utility industry via its new state-of-the-art facility in Alvarado, Texas which manufactures steel transmission and distribution poles, substation structures, and high mast lighting structures.

For more information about Sabre Industries, visit www.sabreindustriesinc.com.